

INTERNSHIP IN MARKETING
For Hospitality and Restaurant Agency

Andrew Freeman & Co. is a dynamic consulting agency that caters to the hospitality and restaurant industry. We are looking for marketing interns to roll up his/her sleeves and to join our team. The internship will be very hands on in helping our agency achieve our goals, which are to provide outstanding service to our clients.

We don't pay in monetary terms (although we do offer a small stipend). We pay you with something more valuable – we repay you with experience and teach you skills to get you to the next level in your marketing career. This is a fantastic learning experience for a highly motivated individual. You'll be exposed to grassroots marketing, event planning, public relations and partnership marketing among other things. If you interested in learning the inner-workings of marketing, public relations, and hospitality, then we want to meet you.

The ideal candidate is self-motivated, proactive, and creative in problem solving, and highly organized and detail orientated. We won't lie – there will be a lot of administrative work, but you'll also have the opportunity to be involved in fun and creative hospitality marketing projects.

Internships projects may include:

Drafting press releases, developing email marketing campaigns, media outreach, and event planning amongst other activities.

Some other things about us:

We're a small office located in SOMA San Francisco. We work hard and we love what we do. Hey, we're in hospitality! Visit our website for more information (www.andrewfreemanandco.com)

Some things about you:

You must know how to use MS office; have great communication and writing skills. You'll be involved in research, writing, coordinating projects, data entry and filing. The perks include attending some really great events if timing works out.

Time Commitment

Three month commitment of 20 hours minimum per week is required; must be available for a few nights a week and some weekends. Hiring is on a rolling basis, and college credit is available.

If you're interested, tell us why. You can reach us at:

info@afandco.com

2009 INTERNSHIP IN PUBLIC RELATIONS
For Hospitality and Restaurant Agency
Fall 2009

Andrew Freeman & Co. is a dynamic consulting agency that caters to the hospitality and restaurant industry. We are looking for marketing and public relations interns to roll up his/her sleeves and to join our team. The internship will be very hands on in helping our agency achieve our goals, which are to provide outstanding service to our clients.

We don't pay in monetary terms (although we do offer a small stipend). We pay you with something more valuable – we repay you with experience and teach you skills to get you to the next level in your marketing or public relations career. This is a fantastic learning experience for a highly motivated individual. You'll be exposed to grassroots marketing, event planning, public relations and partnership marketing among other things. If you interested in learning the inner-workings of public relations, marketing, restaurants and hospitality, then we want to meet you.

The ideal candidate is self-motivated, proactive, and creative in problem solving, and highly organized and detail orientated. We won't lie – there will be a lot of administrative work, but you'll also have the opportunity to be involved in fun and creative projects.

Some other things about us:

We're a small office located in SOMA San Francisco. We work hard and we love what we do. Hey, we're in hospitality! Visit our website for more information (www.andrewfreemanandco.com)

Internships projects may include:

Drafting press releases, developing email marketing campaigns, media outreach, and event planning amongst other activities.

Some things about the job:

You'll learn a lot, but in return, we ask that you really participate. We're looking for someone who is passionate about hospitality public relations – we will really teach you. 15-20 hours a week, for 3 months.

Some things about you:

You must know how to use MS office; have great communication and writing skills. You'll be involved in research, writing, coordinating projects, data entry and filing. The perks include attending some really great events if timing works out. We work in a nice office and we're nice people, too.

If you're interested, tell us why. You can reach us at:

info@afandco.com